

One of the best things wisconsin state government has done for its citizens in years is the establishment and enforcement of our no-call list. Citizens do not want to be bothered by unwanted phone intrusions into their private time. why (she naively asks) would the Federal government even consider weakening this very popular and long-overdue consumer protection? we don't want banks or any other businesses interrupting our lives.